to come lorward

emulation, cm. u.l.

of emulating, rivality periority, attended with emulate. - emulatively

li, ade, la an emulares emulator, con below

A continuous variable can take an infinite set of form of the French employe, one who numeric values is employed, especially, a clerk.] One who works for an employer or master; a clerk, workman, or other whose signification ntends to impress specially person working for salary or wages.audience; a peculiar imemployer, em·ploi'er, n. One who

A categorical variable represents groups (or categories) ric - emphatic, em·lat'ik, a.

ing emphasis; uttered with em-forcible; expressive.—em-Sharically, em-fat'i-kal-li, adv. In an ephysema, em-fi-se'ma, n. [Gr.

state of being employed; occupation; business; that which engages the head or hands; vocation; trade; profession; work. empoison, em. poi'zn, v.t [Prefix em, and poison.] To poison; to taint with poison or venom; to embitter; to destroy all pleasure in.

emporium, em·po'ri·um, n. [L., from Gr. emporion, an emporium or

Distribution of a categorical variable (bar plot)

